Additional questions:

1.   To the result of using the right to withdraw the highest bid

The statement, the example:

From the text of the announcement it is not clear how the Office will proceed in the event that holder of highest bid of the auction set in the T auction round used the right to withdraw his highest bid, while no offer has been made for the auction set in the next round (round T +1) after withdrawal of the highest bid. In this situation, according to our interpretation of the text of the announcement, the Office may retain the same price also in the coming rounds or it may decrease the price according to the rules a) through d) listed in section 7.6.8.

Question:
Is this interpretation correct?
Answer:
Yes, this is correct.

Continuation of the example:

Suppose that the Office will decide for the second option and thus the Office reduce the price in the next round (T +2).

Question:
In the case that no interest will be on this block although the price was reduced, can the Office reduce the price again (e.g. in the T+5 round)?

Answer:
Yes, the price can be reduced.

Continuation of the example:

Suppose that the Office may reduce the price repeatedly.

Question:
Will the Eligibility points be returned again in this case?

Answer:
Yes, Eligibility points will be returned.

2.   To the procedure in the second phase of the auction (assignment of frequencies)

How will be determined the order of the selection for the given category of auction block in the case that for example three winners of the auction (A; B; C) submit their bids on the right of the first choice, for example in order that the highest bid for the right of the first choice will be submitted by the winner A of the auction, the second highest bid will be submitted by the winner B of the auction and the lowest bid will be submitted by the winner C of the Auction, and on the right of the second choice no bid will be submitted by the winners of the auction, but on the right of the third choice all three winners of the auction will again submit their bids, this time in the order C; B; A.

Question:
Who will select as the second?

Answer:
According to the rules set out in section 7.7.1 (sections 2.-4.), the winner of the Auction will select as the second (under point 1 the remaining 2 winners B and C of the auction submitted a bid for the right to the second choice coincidently for 0 CZK). For the right of the second and third choice B and C would not pay any additional cost.

Question:
Which Rules will the Authority follow?
Answer:

In accordance with the answer above, the Office will follow the rules set out in section 7.7.1, according to paragraph 2 to 4.